The Ancestral and Unceded Homelands of the həńqəmińəm and Skwxwú7mesh sníchim Speaking Peoples

The organizers of the Burnaby Community Assembly acknowledge that the area now known as the City of Burnaby is situated on the ancestral and unceded territories of the həńqəmińəm and Skwxwú7mesh sníchim speaking peoples, including the xwməθkwəýəm (Musqueam), Skwxwú7mesh (Squamish), səlilwətał (Tsleil-Waututh), and kwikwəððəm (Kwikwetlem) Nations.

Overview of the Burnaby Community Assembly

The Burnaby Community Assembly is a broadly representative group of 40 residents selected by civic lottery to create recommendations for the City of Burnaby's Official Community Plan under the guiding question: How should Burnaby grow and change by 2050 to create a city where everyone can thrive?

Assembly Members worked together over 7 full-day sessions between February 24 and June 15, 2024 to learn about their city, hear each other's perspectives and work through trade-offs. Issues tackled included density, livability, housing, climate change and transportation in the context of a growing city.

The Assembly process was designed and overseen by Simon Fraser University's Morris J. Wosk Centre for Dialogue in a collaborative but arm's-length partnership with the City of Burnaby. The City of Burnaby committed in advance to receive and respond to the Assembly's recommendations, ensuring the process is transparent and accountable. City Council remains responsible for final approval of the Official Community Plan.

Purpose of this Appendix

This document is one of seven detailed appendices for the Burnaby Community Assembly's final report. SFU's Morris J. Wosk Centre for dialogue has made these extensive materials available in the interests of transparency and accountability.

These materials will support Burnaby residents, and all others who have interest in the development of the Burnaby 2050 Official Community Plan, in understanding the detailed process by which the Assembly Members developed their recommendations. These appendices will also support engagement and learning about community and planning issues in Burnaby, centred around the Assembly's guiding question: How should Burnaby grow and change by 2050 to create a city where everyone can thrive?

Furthermore, these materials will allow the Burnaby Community Assembly to serve as a detailed case study for analysis and consideration by researchers, public engagement practitioners, governments, and all those who are interested in deliberative democratic processes. A "deliberative wave" of community assemblies and similar processes have been internationally recognized by the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) for transforming how cities and other levels of government engage residents on complex issues, and the Centre for Dialogue is one of many organizations working towards strengthening the effectiveness of these processes.

In 2021, Burnaby became the first known local government in Canada to commission a Community Assembly for its Official Community Plan. In 2024, Gibsons, BC became the first known community to finish such an Assembly, working in partnership with the Centre for Dialogue's Renovate the Public Hearing Initiative. Alongside the work of other regional leaders in public participation, such as the City of New Westminster, we hope these processes will set a new benchmark for how local governments engage their communities on the decisions that matter most.

Note On Structure:

These appendices contain a number of documents, reports and slide decks from throughout the Assembly process. Please refer to "document lists" that are included throughout these appendices to help navigate these numerous embedded documents.

Overview of Civic Lottery Process

To carry out the Assembly's Civic Lottery recruitment process, the Centre for Dialogue partnered with Sortition Foundation, a global leader in Civic Lotteries with experience recruiting participants for more than 100 Citizens' Assemblies and similar processes worldwide.

Investing in the Civic Lottery process was important because engaging a broadly representative group of participants was critical to increase the legitimacy of the Community Assembly recommendations, to establish trust and ownership among participants and to build a narrative among the wider community that was credible and rooted in democratic practices.

The goal for the recruitment process was to select 45 Assembly Members by Civic Lottery who were a broadly representative cross-section of residents in Burnaby.

Step 1: Mail Invitations by Lottery

The first step in the Civic Lottery was to distribute invitations to households in Burnaby using a lottery system, with municipal address databases provided by Canada Post. Standard industry norms require organizers of Community Assemblies to distribute 200–300 invitations per required participant, with normal response rates falling between 1.5% and 5%. 26,088 mail invitations were sent to residents of Burnaby in two batches; on of 13,500 on January 9th, and one of 12,588 on January 24th, 2024. For the first mailing, the registration deadline was set for January 28th, 2024, but was then extended to February 4th, 2024. After receiving an inviation to their mailing address, respondents had the option to register by both web form and phone. This resulted in 579 eligible registrations (2.2% response rate).

Special measures were implemented to support accessibility and recruit Assembly Members who reflect the diversity of the community including:

- Advertising accessibility measures up-front so that invitees are aware of honoraria, child and elder care, and other accessibility supports that support equity in participation.
- Allowing everyone who lives at a mailing address to volunteer. This supported greater participation from under-heard voices such as basement suites, youth or multi-generational households. 150 of 579 registrants resided at a mailing addresses where multiple people registered from that address. Registrations were received from 495 different mailing addresses, 66 of which had multiple registrants (13%). Only one resident per mailing address could be selected to serve on the Assembly.

- Extra invitations were sent to postal codes with low socio-economic status based on the "situational vulnerability" of those areas according to the Canadian Index of Multiple Deprivation, recognizing that those neighbourhoods would likely have lower response rates and therefore be under-represented in a typical Civic Lottery process.
- Including a multilingual insert in mail-outs featuring the guiding question of the Assembly in 10 languages: "How should Burnaby grow and change by 2050 to create a city where everyone can thrive?" The invitation package encouraged the participation of those who spoke English as a second language, noted the large proportion of this group in Burnaby, and promoted language accessiblity supports, while clearly noting the working language of the Assembly was English.
- Widely promoting the act of issuing mail invitations to raise buzz and excitement about the Assembly (e.g. "Have you received your invitation yet?"), including via:
 - Traditional news media
 - Advertising on social media platforms
 - Joint media release with the City of Burnaby
- Tracking the progress of registrations to assess the need for increasing outreach efforts towards demographics with low response rates (ultimately not required as sufficient responses recevied from all target demographics).

Step 2: Lottery Selection Based on Demographic Targets

The pool of volunteers who registered were then entered into the second stage of the Civic Lottery. Sortition Foundation used specialized software to carry out the lottery process using industry best practices. This software allows cities to satisfy demographic recruitment criteria while also giving volunteers as fair an opportunity as possible to be selected. The logic of this software is published transparently in the pre-eminent journal Nature.

Given the expected size of the volunteer pool, up to eight demographic targets could be selected for. Demographic targets for age, gender identity, language spoken most often at home, education, home owner/renter status, immigration status and location of residence in Burnaby were set to match Statistics Canada data. A minimum target of 3 Indigenous participants was also set as one of several efforts to ensure the perspectives of Indigenous community members were meaningfully incorporated into the process.

Once Members were selected through the Civic Lottery, the Centre for Dialogue connected with them by phone and email to their participation, establish their accessibility needs and orient them to their role in the process. 45 Assembly Members were confrimed from February 5th–12th, 2024 (after attrition, 40 Members completed the full Assembly process).

Limitations

While this form of civic lottery process typically creates groups far more representative than typical engagement processes or bodies, it is important to note that a Community Assembly of this size cannot easily incorporate voices from minorities that make up less than five percent of the population, and is not a suitable means to understand the specific needs of marginalized communities or groups that face disproportionate impacts from decision-making. The Centre for Dialogue encourages decision-makers to engage and partner with these groups as part of their larger engagement strategy and also works to ensure that voices of highly impacted groups are amplified through the interaction between a Community Assembly and other community groups and knowledge holders.

Re: Volunteer by January 28th to help shape the future of Burnaby!

Dear valued member of the Burnaby community,

I'm writing to ask you to put your name forward for the Burnaby Community Assembly, where 45 community members will work together to create recommendations on the important question:

How should Burnaby grow and change by 2050 to create a city where everyone can thrive?

Burnaby residents have a lot to be proud of, including the city's green spaces, its community centres and libraries, and its diversity. Residents have also told City Hall that they are struggling with access to housing, that heat waves and other climate events are impacting people's health, that residents need better ways of moving around, and that continued work is needed to make Burnaby safe, livable and resilient for everyone.

The Burnaby Community Assembly is a once-in-a-generation opportunity to work alongside your fellow community members and develop recommendations for "Burnaby 2050", the City's Official Community Plan. The Assembly will present its recommendations to City Council, who is responsible for final approval of the Official Community Plan. The City of Burnaby has committed to receive and respond to the Assembly's recommendations, ensuring the process is transparent and accountable.

Assembly Members will participate in 7 full-day sessions and 2 half-day public workshops between February 24th – June 15th, 2024. To reduce barriers to participation, we will offer accessibility supports such as child care, elder care and transit fares. Funding from community partners has made it possible for the Centre for Dialogue to offer honorariums up to $175 for each full-day meeting (based on living wage standards) for Assembly Members who have to miss work to take part in the Assembly or face other financial barriers.

You don't need any prior knowledge to take part in the Burnaby Community Assembly. If your household has received this letter then you are the right person to take part!

Please share this invitation with anyone aged 15 and over who lives at this mailing address, including any renters, boarders, or lodgers. An unlimited number of people from this mailing address can register their interest by visiting burnabyassembly.ca/register or by calling us toll-free at 877-882-1253. The deadline to register is Sunday, January 28th, 2024. Forty-five Assembly Members will then be selected by civic lottery.

This is an exciting opportunity to help shape the future of Burnaby and its neighbourhoods. We hope that you will volunteer for the Burnaby Community Assembly and we look forward to hearing from you.

Yours Sincerely,

pl m

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS: Burnaby Community Assembly

What is the Burnaby Community Assembly?

The Assembly will bring together a representative body of 45 residents who will meet over 7 Saturdays and 2 half-day public workshops to learn, work through trade-offs, and engage in dialogue to create recommendations for Burnaby's new Official Community Plan.

Who is running the event?

The sessions will be facilitated by Simon Fraser University's Morris J. Wosk Centre for Dialogue, an internationally-recognized convenor for public and stakeholder engagement.

This project is undertaken in arm's-length collaboration with the City of Burnaby, in parallel with many other City-led engagements related to the Official Community Plan.

Where and when are the sessions?

Meetings will occur at the Bonsor Recreation Complex, 6550 Bonsor Avenue, Burnaby.

Participants will be asked to commit to attending all meetings, which will run from 10am - 5pm on the following 7 Saturdays between February and June 2024: February 24th; March 2nd; March 16th; April 20th; May 4th; June 1st; and June 15th.

Two additional half-day public workshops will also be held at times yet to be determined, one in March or April and one in May, 2024.

What will taking part involve?

If you are selected to participate, you will have the opportunity to meet with individuals from all walks of life in the Burnaby community, hear from engaging speakers, and discuss key issues in small groups with facilitators to make sure everyone has their voice heard. You do not need to have any prior knowledge of the topics – all the information you need will be provided.

How will you ensure that the event is accessible?

Assembly Members will be offered honorariums up to $175 for each full-day meeting if they have to miss work to take part in the Assembly or face other financial barriers. To reduce barriers to participation, we also will offer additional accessibility supports such as child care, elder care and transit fares.

The venue also features accessible washrooms, elevators and parking. Lunch and snacks will also be provided at all Assembly Meetings.

Can I participate if I speak English as a second language?

Over 67% of Burnaby speaks a language besides English, and we want to hear their voices! Programming will be designed to accommodate diverse backgrounds and levels of English fluency. Accessibility supports in multiple languages will also be available for those who need them.

To register your interest visit: www.burnabyassembly.ca/register or call toll-free 877-882-1253 8:30am–5pm Monday to Friday by Sunday, January 28th, 2024

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS: Burnaby Community Assembly

Who can volunteer to participate?

Anyone (with a few exceptions) who resides at the mailing address that received this invitation, and is aged 15 and older can volunteer. Temporary Canadian residents, permanent residents, citizens and other statuses are all welcome. Current elected representatives at any level of government, and current employees of the City of Burnaby cannot volunteer to participate.

How was I selected to receive this invitation?

Your household was one of 13,500 addresses in Burnaby that was selected by civic lottery from the Canada Post address database.

After I register my interest, what happens next?

Once registration has closed, 45 people will be selected by civic lottery from those who volunteered. The civic lottery process ensures that registrants have a similar chance of being chosen, and that Assembly Members reflect the broad spectrum of Burnaby's diverse community across demographic factors such as age, gender identity, language spoken at home, education, home renter/owner status, Indigenous identity, immigration status, and location of residence in Burnaby.

If you are selected, we will contact you by phone and email starting January 29th to confirm that you can attend, discuss any accessibility needs and supports, and explain what happens next.

What will happen after the Assembly concludes?

The Assembly's recommendations will be presented to Burnaby City Council, who is responsible for final approval of the Official Community Plan, and has committed to responding to each recommendation.

This is a once-in-a-generation opportunity to share your voice and impact important issues including housing accessibility, climate change, growth, transportation and livability through the Burnaby 2050 Official Community Plan!

What is an Official Community Plan and why does it matter?

An Official Community Plan (OCP) is a long-range strategic policy plan where a local government sets out its vision for the future. An OCP includes information about how the population is projected to grow and change. An OCP includes policies that will help the city to accommodate that growth while protecting the elements of the city that residents value and while working towards the shared vision of the future.

Where can I get more information?

First Nations Identity - Further Details

Based on feedback from Indigenous knowledge holders we are asking participants to provide information about their Indigenous identity to reduce the chance that a space reserved for Indigenous Peoples is inappropriately taken by a non-Indigenous resident. We have used questions based on the Canadian census for this purpose. We welcome any feedback on how we can improve this process in the future as we try to respond to the needs of Indigenous residents in a good way.

* 1. Are you a Status Indian (Registered or Treaty Indian as defined by the Indian Act of Canada)?

3. If you answered "yes" above, and are a member of First Nation or Indian Band, which First Nation or Indian Band are you a member of?

For example, Soowahlie Indian Band, Sturgeon Lake First Nation, Atikamekw of Manawan.

Métis Identity - Further Details

Based on feedback from Indigenous knowledge holders we are asking participants to provide information about their Indigenous identity to reduce the chance that a space reserved for Indigenous Peoples is inappropriately taken by a non-Indigenous resident. We have used questions based on the Canadian census for this purpose. We welcome any feedback on how we can improve this process in the future as we try to respond to the needs of Indigenous residents in a good way.

* 1. Are you a registered member of a Métis organization or Settlement?

Note: If "Yes", please select one of the listed signatories of the Canada-Métis Nation Accord or specify a Métis organization or Metis Settlement (for example, Kikino Metis Settlement).

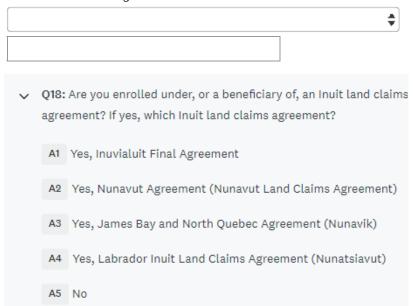

Inuk (Inuit) Identity - Further Details

Based on feedback from Indigenous knowledge holders we are asking participants to provide information about their Indigenous identity to reduce the chance that a space reserved for Indigenous Peoples is inappropriately taken by a non-Indigenous resident. We have used questions based on the Canadian census for this purpose. We welcome any feedback on how we can improve this process in the future as we try to respond to the needs of Indigenous residents in a good way.

* 1. Are you enrolled under, or a beneficiary of, an Inuit land claims agreement? If yes, which Inuit land claims agreement?

Civic Lottery Selection Targets and Outcomes

This section contains the full data for the selection targets and outcomes of the civic lottery. Demographic targets for age, gender identity, language spoken most often at home, education, owner/renter status, immigration status (time since immigrating to Canada) and location of residence in Burnaby were set to match Statistics Canada data. A minimum target of 3 Indigenous participants was also set as one of several efforts to ensure the perspectives of Indigenous community members were meaningfully incorporated into the process (in the end, 4 Assembly Members self-identified as Indigenous).

In the chart below, "Selected Members" refers to those who were initially selected and confirmed through the civic lottery, whereas "Completed Process" refers to the sub-set of selected members who completed the Assembly process, after attrition.

*While Statistics Canada did not publish statistics in the 2021 census for gender identities in Burnaby besides man and woman, respondents who indicated diverse gender identities had the same chance to be selected through the civic lottery, compared to those who identified as a man or woman. The segments for diverse gender identities above includes those who registered as two-spirit, non-binary, transgender woman or transgender man and those who chose to self-describe their gender identity. These diverse gender identities are displayed above as one segment to ensure the privacy of respondents and Assembly Members.

^{}A minimum target of 3 Indigenous identifying participants was set as one of several efforts to ensure the perspectives of Indigenous community members were meaningfully incorporated into the process. This was not set to match a specific percentage of partcipants as with other demographics.
